

/I just mentioned this:

Solar power breakthrough at Massey - New Zealand's source for business, stock market & currency news on Stuff.co.nz

New solar cells developed by Massey University don't need direct sunlight to operate and use a patented range of dyes that can be impregnated in roofs, window glass and eventually even clothing to produce power.

The announcement is here: Massey News Article - Taking nature's cue for cheaper solar power