

On the way to work this morning, saw a small flock of starlings playing in a cyclone fence. One bird, near the top, shat upon one near the bottom. The shat upon bird squocked in protest. Avian fratricide!