

Some thoughts on Time and Eternity...

First, from a Google search we get this oddly typographic explanation:

So eternity is like a continuum, with no beginning, and no ending, just like a circle.

So what is time then? Time is simply a paranthetical insertion in eternity created by God so that man can relate to God in eternity. It's like putting 2 "œbrackets" on eternity to create Time " with a beginning and an end!

You're probably wondering, where am I getting this from? Where's the proof? The Bible of course!

Free Community Church

Pawn much prefers this explanation from Baudolino by Umberto Eco:

"Time is an eternity that stammers"

— Baudolino, Chapter 33 Eco - Quotations