

Pawn is a fan of Francis Bacon (as written before on these pages) and was surprised to find the image above in a recent collection at Michael Wolf's web site:

MICHAEL WOLF | PHOTOGRAPHY | HONGKONG

This is a copy of one of Bacon's more famous paintings from a series on Pope Innocent X (1953):

Image:Study after Velazquez's Portrait of Pope Innocent X.jpg - Wikipedia, the free encyclopedia

Having seen the original in person some months back, I am tempted to order a copy from China (see Heading East).