

I wish for a day when every four years the citizens of this country impose upon one of their own, unbidden, to serve for four years as their president: "Well, if I must..."