

The sunrise was so fucking beautiful this morning.
The impressionists laid down their brushes in surrender and bowed down before Ra.
As I left the shore a long, high, sharp cloud lay like a scimitar across the sky, its blade slicing that great god in two.